The logo's clear text "InteractSphere" is clearly visible, which represents the interaction between peers across different location. Good design ensures that elements are easily observable. In everyday objects, visibility matters too.

The globe-like structure in the background symbolizes global interaction and connection. In design, we strive to represent natural relationships between form and function. Here, the globe represents connection between peers.

The gradient blue bars on either side provide a sense of boundaries. The cross shaped structure represents two people handshaking gesture with symbolizes connection. Constraints in design guide users toward appropriate actions. These bars subtly frame the central text, emphasizing its importance. The blue color is a symbol of intuition, sincerity and peace, which connects with the idea of the site.

Ideally, good design minimizes the need for memorization. The straightforward text and visual elements in the logo align with this principle.

The tagline "BRIDGING DISCIPLINES, BUILDING CONNECTIONS" in the logo signifies connecting different fields of study (bridging disciplines) and creating meaningful links (building connections). It encourages collaboration across diverse areas.
